

Coral Class – WB 02.03.20

English

To celebrate world book day, this week we have been thinking about book reviews. We looked at the difference between facts and opinions, and positive and negative statements. The children all chose a book to review and thought about what it was about, whether they would recommend it, and what they would change about it. We've also been practising finding information in a text to answer questions.

Maths

In Maths this week we have been learning to count amounts of money. We noticed that we can use our multiplication skills and count up in the value of the coin. Then we challenged ourselves to add groups of different coins together to find the total value of our money. We'll be continuing to practise using money next week.

Science

We have continued our eggperiment this week. The children followed their designs from last week to protect the egg using drag force and shock absorption. When the children had made their modules, they tested them using a weight before the final test with the egg. Then they made adjustments before the final test! Some eggs survived, others

Topic

This week we found a strange map of our school with x marks on it. We used a compass to follow the map and found words at the marked locations. The words made the sentences "My planet was destroyed by pollution. I want to live on Earth." We thought it could be from the alien that crashed in our flower beds and decided it would be kind to let the alien stay!

Phonics

This week we have been looking at homophones, words that sound the same but have different spellings. For example- there, their and they're
